Q: Plain javascript to dynamically style Google Maps: Can I make this more efficient? I'm trying to create a clickable map with a legend. Below is the code I have. The only way I know to do this is by creating a new popup window and loading the contents of a styled map via the information window. I would like to know if there is a way to do this via pure javascript without opening a new window.

The FIFA series is an annual soccer video game developed by EA Canada and published by Electronic Arts for Microsoft Windows. It has been the best-selling soccer video game series for the Xbox 360 console, and is also a regular contender for the Game of the Year award. The series debuted on 16 October 1994 for the PC, X-Box, and PlayStation.[1] The series is published in several regions worldwide, and is made available in territories including North America, Europe, Australia, and Japan. The series takes place in a sport that, rather than using a continuous match time, consists of a series of games. The most recent FIFA World Cup Edition of the game was launched in November 2013. Gameplay The game is on a two to four-player free-kicks system. The game is based around the artificial intelligence of the computer-controlled players on the pitch, and aims to simulate the play of the sport as realistically as possible. The game features online play, a first for the FIFA series. The online features include a commentary that is available in a game mode that offers commentary in all games and a new split screen offering four-player co-op. The official videos appear in the Skills Academy, and are said to increase the user's online exposure and help them earn a higher position in the ladder. EA Sports recommend FIFA 21 to increase their ranking. The graphics on FIFA 21 are much better than FIFA 20. Features FIFA 20 features advanced skill games to build the Ultimate Team, plus all-new additional features and game modes. Fans can now use their Fans' Bar, which stores select in-game items such as shoes, and shares them with their friends. EA's FUT Draft will also include a draft pick simulator. Online PlayStation 4 On 11 December 2013, the official website for the PlayStation 4 version was updated with more information about the game. This includes the addition of Online for the game, which allows the user to play online with their friends. The FUT Draft functionality also seems to be back, however it will now be available to all new players, not just "recommended" users of FIFA 21. The online players can be tested with 50 matches in the "Local Tournaments". The announcement for the PS4 release also confirmed the FUT Draft simulation, this time called "Play & Draft". The draft is conducted in real-time with other players online bc9d6d6daa
